But when we leave the general and descend to the particular, differences of opinion begin to manifest themselves as between these in whom caution preponderates and those who are more reckless of consequences. - Then it is that the cautious man calls the tomerarious to any address for ten shillings per unum, inman a Jingo and the temerarious man

Englander. It is accorted by all parties, however, that our interest in Imperial expansion is mainly commercial and that territorial aggrandisement is not to be desired for its own sake.

Lord FARRER recently had an article in the Contemporary Review entitled " Does Trade follow the Flag?" in which some remarkable statistics were given which were noticed in this column at the time the article reached us. Mr. CHAMBERLAIN in a speech at Wolverhampton took occasion to controvert Lord FARRER's arguments and pointed out that in the last forty years the exports of British products from the last December, has been acquitted. United Kingdom to the protectionist States and colonies had increased by 120 per cent., but during the same time the exports of British products to the countries, which are free-trade and to colonies whose tariffs are under our control had increased by 270 per cent., or two-and-s-quarter times as much. If Lord FARRER's argument were carried Republic + TABE to its logical conclusion, said Mr. Cham-BERLAIN, you would arrive at this -that it does not matter to us one atom to whom any territory belongs because we shall do just as much British trade with that territory, even although it be under a protectionist flag, as we should do if it were under the British flug and we had full control of its tariffs. On the other hand it may be said that if Mr. Chamberlain's argument were carried to its logical conclusion we would arrive at this-that Great Britain should annex the whole world, which is impossible

DAILY FIGHTS AROUND OUTPOSTS

[FROM. OUR COBRESPONDENT]. Manila, 24th February, Wednesday being Washington's birthday th ships in the harbour were decorated and at noon the national salute was fired.

Along the outposts and at the camps there was practically no demonstration beyond a few cheers, but toward evening the artillery stabioned in the cemetery at San Pedro Macate began the salute, although in this case there were more than blank charges and Filipinos formed the targets. With the exception of the usual skir mishing, in which two Americans were killed the day passed quietly enough. About half-past seven o'clock in the evening a fire started in the Saula Craz district near the city gaol. The police, and several additional companies of soldiers were quickly on the scene, but fresh bluzes storted in balf-a-dozen different places and was seen that it was the work of incendiaries. Though the soldiers and native fire department besides the volunteer brigade, which is composed of foreigners, whose work cannot be too highly praised, worked uncessingly for over an hour it was impossible to check the progress of the fire and it simply burned itself devestating two solid blacks of nips and stone houses. "The inhabitants were principally Chinamen and natives, who are now homeless and ponniless. While the fire was in progress the police discovered a number of native soldiers delivered on the 19th of May last, in favour of who had managed to slip throught the advanced American lines near Caloocan, and soon had fifteen in custody.

> ANOTHER BLAZE. Before nine o'clock fire was discovered about half-a-mile from the first in the Tondo district, just noross the broad street Calls Iris that separates the nearest native suburb from the city. As soon as the soldiers arrived shooting began and Mausers fell into the city streets, some bullets even reaching the Hotel Oriente and La Insular cigar factories. The police were several times shot at from native houses and the roof of buildings within three hundred yards of the Escolta. As a result the police potted pretty-nearly everthing-wearing white or native clothes, and made a number of arrests. It was seen that a > NATIVE UPRISING. had begun and troops all over the city were ordered out. Heavy guards patrolled all the principal streets and sentries were placed near tough localities. No one was allowed to leave the houses and a few natives who disregarded commands were shot.

> On reaching the Calle Iris the soldiers en gaged a number of Filipines and bullete kept flying across the street in lively style until the fire forced the natives back, but the shooting still continued through blazing houses and along the creeks. A captain of the police was shot through the cheek and two privates wounded before the fire was reached.

> It was useless to attempt to save property. and as this district has been a notorious hotbed of crime, several soldiers crossed over and started new fires on the left in the native quarters. The old Tondo Cathedral narrowly escaped raination with the rest, but was save intact. Dozens of people carrying small bundles attempted to cross into the American lines. Two hundred men and women, na tives and Chinamen were taken prisoners and some thirty-five killed. Suddenly another fire started right behind the American outposts in the thickly settled Tondo market place, and this added its blaze and smoke to the other two, all of which kept on burning until next day. BUBNED THEIR WAY TO CALOOCAN In the morning Major Goodah with eight companies started on the march to Caloocan. clearing out the intervening country as they went. They encountered opposition right from the start and within 800 yards of Calle Iris one American was killed and four wounded. Nine natives took refuge in a corral surrounded by stone walls and fought for over half-an hour before they were killed. One old fellow, on whom no weapons were found, had apparently been picking chickens throughout the fighting he died with the rest. A short distance fur ther along the line of the steam-tramway a body of about fourty soldiers were strongly entrenched and a private of the 28rd U.S. Infantry was killed before the men swept over the trench and found twenty-seven Filipino bodies. The rest escaped into the brush and kept up lively sniping until

All the river beats and cargo lighters have been ordered out of the river and are now anchored out near the break water. In spite of all these alarming circumstances good order is maintained and if one complies with all orders life is safe.

On the afternoon of the 23rd inst. Muriues landed from the English and Japanese warships and went on gnard, at the banks, and some of the latter in the Japanese quarters.

As I am writing the boom of artillery and the crack of intantry can distinctly be heard. It is less than a mile away, but no one appears

Mr. Kennedy disturbed beyond the natives employed, who are in fear of their lives, lest the soldiers come Mr. Walwyn in after them. In fact the last three weeks have been so exciting that little less than the sinking of a battleship will cause surprise. During the first few days the people were wrought up to a high pitch and the popping of a sods water bottle on the Escotla would cause them to rush to the window or dodge into doorways, but for most citizens the period has blown over. There is no use speculating; we just wait and accept what the motrow brings forth.

POLITICAL SPEECH BY MR. BALFOUR. London, 31st January. Meeting. The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treesury and M. P. for East Manchester, addressed his constituents at Manchester last night. In the course of his speech Mr. Balfour said he did not believe that the Liberal party would deal with the House of Lords if they came into power, as any reform would only strongthen the Upper House. They were, however, likely to advocate Home Rule for Ireland and the disestablishhing Hand," I am inclined to think that his I ment of the Church of England, as these were friend the "Chinaphobiat" was probably right. | the only questions on which they were backed The Chinese are not a bloodthirsty race, and in | by a genuine organised public opinion, and he fact would be much less easily stirred to action | warned Churchmen that the controversies that than our own under similar conditions. Doubt- | had lately arison in connection with the Church less the details of the case are horrible enough. | had deeply moved the country. Referring to though probably exaggerated, as all these foreign affairs, Mr. Balfour declared that the hings mostly are; but we must not fall into | conscious strength of Great Britain and the the error of condemning the race because of a officioncy of her armaments were the best few. There are devils in all lands. Even our security for juniversal peace, and the common own glorious civilization produces them. It was sympathy which existed between Great Britain

PUBLIC GRANARIES. London, 30th January, The Right Hon. W. A. Long. President of the Board of Agriculture, in a speech delivered at Newcastle last night, referred to the proposal to establish public granaries in Great Britain in order to ensure the food suply in time of war. should hesitate before raising too great a huo He stated that such granaries would be useless, and cry against our neighbour. The truth is and they must depend upon the pavy for the INEBRIATE INSTITUTIONS. London, 31st January.

tion, a great meeting of Protestants was held in the Albert Hall, London, last night, at which 10,000 persons were present. The chair was occupied by Lord Kinnaird, and 150 towns in Great Britain were represented at the meet.

The meeting decided to telegraph to the Queen, asking her Majesty to order that legislation be introduced to prevent Ritualistic practices now adopted in many of the Anglican charches.

The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, replying to a deputation of Protestants who waited upon him at Manchester vesterday, said his views on education in Ireland were the same now as those expressed by him a decade ago, but he had not committed his party to any definite course of action. It was a matter of indifference to him whether he remained in public life or not, but he was entitled to express his conscientions views, With Sir William Harcourt, he strongly deprecated any logislative interference with the alleged lawlessness in the Church of England unless it were shown that the Bishops failed in enforcing obstitutes to their instructions on the part of the clergy. SHIPBUILDING ACTIVITY. London, 31st January. The greatest activity continues to prevail in the shipbuilding trade in Great Britain. The various firms on the Clyde have now sufficient work on hand to occupy them for the next eighteen mouths, and they are in consequence refusing further orders for the present.

A TRADE DISPUTE. London, 31st January. Mr. John Burns, the Labour leader, has expressed the opinion that the grievances of the Plasterers' Union are not sufficient to justify a strike of the building trades.
